

MARAZION SCHOOL

POLICY FOR ANTI-BULLYING

Reviewed March 2024 by Headteacher, Chair of Governors and Link Governor for Behaviour

Approved March 2024 by FGB

Marazion School is familiar with the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child 1989.

“We can make a difference if we are vigilant to create a new kind of society, more compassionate, more caring, more sharing where human rights, where children’s rights are respected and protected.” Archbishop Desmond M Tutu

“Human is our only race.” Reece James

The Education and Inspections Act 2006

Section 89 of the Education and Inspections Act 2006 provides that maintained schools must have measures to encourage good behaviour and prevent all forms of bullying amongst pupils. These measures should be linked to the school’s behaviour policy which must be shared with pupils, school staff and parents.

The Equality Act 2010

The Equality Act became law in 2010. It covers everyone in Britain and protects people from discrimination, harassment and victimisation. The Duty requires public bodies to have due regard to the need to:

- eliminate unlawful discrimination, harassment, victimisation and any other conduct prohibited by the Act

- advance equality of opportunity between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it
- foster good relations between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it

Schools are required to comply with this Equality Duty. Everyone in Britain is protected. This is because the Equality Act protects people against discrimination because of the protected characteristics that we all have. Under the Equality Act, there are nine protected characteristics:

- age
- disability
- gender reassignment
- marriage and civil partnership
- pregnancy and maternity
- race
- religion or belief
- sex
- sexual orientation

Prejudice is only dangerous when it is acted upon. To change behaviours is far easier than to change beliefs. And once behaviours and language begin to change, beliefs that were once held but are no longer verbalised will, in time, fade into the background.

Criminal Law

Although bullying in itself is not a specific criminal offence in the UK, it is important to bear in mind that some types of harassing or threatening behaviour – or communications – could be a criminal offence, for example under the Protection from Harassment Act 1997, the Malicious Communications Act 1988, the Communications Act 2003, and the Public Order Act 1986.

If school staff feel that an offence may have been committed they should seek assistance from the police. For example, under Malicious Communications Act 1988, any person who sends an electronic communication which conveys a message which is indecent or grossly offensive, a threat, or information which is false and known or believed to be false by the sender, is guilty of an offence if their purpose in sending it was to cause distress or anxiety to the recipient.

What is bullying?

Bullying is behaviour by an individual or group, repeated over time, that intentionally hurts another individual or group either physically or emotionally. Bullying can take many forms (for instance, cyber-bullying via text messages, social media or gaming, which can include the use of images and video) and is often motivated by prejudice against particular groups, for example on grounds of race, religion, gender, sexual orientation, special educational needs or disabilities, or because a child is adopted, in care or has caring responsibilities. It might be motivated by actual differences between children, or perceived differences.

Bullying may be:

- physical – hitting, kicking, taking belongings
- verbal – name-calling, insulting, racist remarks
- indirect – spreading nasty stories about someone, excluding someone from social groups
- cyber-bullying (see below)

Stopping violence and ensuring immediate physical safety is obviously a school's first priority but emotional bullying can be more damaging than physical. Many experts say that bullying involves an imbalance of power between the perpetrator and the victim. This could involve perpetrators of bullying having control over the relationship which makes it difficult for those they bully to defend themselves. The imbalance of power can manifest itself in several ways, it may be physical, psychological (knowing what upsets someone), derive from an intellectual imbalance, or by having access to the support of a group, or the capacity to socially isolate. It can result in the intimidation of a person or persons through the threat of violence or by isolating them either physically or online.

Low-level disruption and the use of offensive language can in itself have a significant impact on its target. If left unchallenged or dismissed as banter or horseplay it can also lead to reluctance to report other behaviour. Early intervention can help to set clear expectations of the behaviour that is and isn't acceptable and help stop negative behaviours escalating.

Cyber-bullying

The rapid development of, and widespread access to, technology has provided a new medium for 'virtual' bullying, which can occur in or outside school. Cyber-bullying is a different form of bullying and can happen at all times of the day, with a potentially bigger audience, and more accessories as people forward on content at a click.

The Education Act 2011 amended the power in the Education Act 1996 to provide that when an electronic device, such as a mobile phone, has been seized by a member of staff who has been formally authorised by the headteacher, that staff member can examine data or files, and delete these, where there is good reason to do so. This power applies to all schools and there is no need to have parental consent to search through a young person's mobile phone.

If an electronic device that is prohibited by the school rules has been seized and the member of staff has reasonable ground to suspect that it contains evidence in relation to an offence, they must give the device to the police as soon as it is reasonably practicable.

If a staff member finds material that they do not suspect contains evidence in relation to an offence, they can decide whether it is appropriate to delete or retain the material as evidence of a breach of school discipline.

For more information on how to respond to cyber-bullying please refer to the 'further resources' section of this document.

Hate Incident

Bullying as a result of a protected characteristic is considered as a hate incident. This is because a protected characteristic is the very core of somebody's identity. It is something they cannot and should not want to change about themselves.

Hate incidents are different to other forms of bullying and should be treated as such. Hate incidents can, and do, have a profound effect on the victim. Negative language and stereotyping filters through schools, creating a culture of hostility that, once embedded, is very difficult to change. It is our responsibility at Marazion School to embed a culture of inclusivity that fosters positive mental health for all students, particularly those at most risk of exclusion. It is important that we know the stories of children with protected characteristics and that we learn and build on the variety of cultural norms of our pupils, their families and communities. A hate incident does not have to be perceived by the victim as such. If a member of staff sees an incident and feels that it was motivated by hate then it should be viewed as such. It is the same if a fellow pupil notices and reports an incident that they feel was motivated by hate but that they were not involved in. This is important as often the victims (especially primary age) are not aware of the possible reasons for an incident, especially if there is no specific language used. Therefore, it's often up to members of staff and children to be alert to this and report as they perceive the situation.

A culture of inclusion and cultural well-being begins with pupils, staff and governors and we aim to tune into the values, beliefs, attitudes and behaviours of different cultures and interact with empathy and understanding.

Hate incidents should never be looked at in isolation. Each time an incident of this nature occurs, the Designated Safeguarding Lead and the Link Governor for Safeguarding both review policies and procedures as well as planning and the content of assemblies and circle times. They also may implement training liaising with local partners including Cornwall Council.

What do we need to do?

Record: Recognise a hate incident and record it as quickly as possible

Respond: Respond as appropriate, challenging prejudice

Report: To the pupils and parents involved, the governors and the LA.

Marazion School has a ZERO TOLERANCE approach to bullying and pupils, staff, parents and governors all agree that this is an expectation and the RIGHT way to behave, ensuring pupils' safety and well-being. We are all PRO-ACTIVE and we all strive to develop strategies to prevent bullying occurring in the first place. We:

- Follow an ANTI-RACIST, DIVERSE, BEAUTIFUL and HAPPY curriculum
- Have written 'MARAZION MANNERS', which reminds us about key things that are important to us every day
- Know that we are UNIQUE
- Have HIGH EXPECTATIONS
- Know that being KIND is how to be the very BEST YOU

- Expect adults and older pupils to be very good ROLE MODELS
- Develop POSITIVE relationships within the school community and local area
- Understand HOW our actions affect those around us
- Treat one another with RESPECT
- Celebrate DIFFERENCE and DIVERSITY
- Fight for FREEDOM of EXPRESSION, EQUALITY and EQUITY
- Show TOLERANCE for the culture and beliefs of others
- Operate a RESTORATIVE approach to racism and prejudice. Any topical news stories surrounding religion or race are dealt with head on, given children an opportunity to work through any confusing thoughts, feelings and opinions
- Choose a TRUSTED ADULT that we feel confident talking to if we have any worries or concerns
- Are able to TALK to our peers or trusted adults if we have a worry
- Use WORRY-EATERS to help us with our worries
- Can have a WELLBEING SESSION with 1 of our school counsellors, who work in school on Tuesday mornings and Wednesdays
- Aim to feel SAFE and know that we can openly discuss any issues
- Trust that we will be LISTENED to
- ACCEPT that we will make mistakes, but we will LEARN from them.

This culture extends beyond the classroom to the corridors, the dining hall, the playground, during school visits, fixtures and events and outside the school gates in our local community.

We aim to:

- Develop a whole school culture of inclusion and cultural well-being
- Deliver a diverse, beautiful and happy curriculum that is inclusive and educates, ensuring that history is not taught to suit one race. Instead, there is ONE HISTORY, taught fully, where education includes the accomplishments of everyone
- Involve parents, making it clear that the school does not tolerate bullying and making sure that they are aware of the procedures to follow if they believe their child is being bullied. The school takes any complaint about bullying seriously and resolves the issue in a way that protects the child
- Involve pupils so that they understand the school's approach and are very clear about their role in preventing bullying
- Evaluate our approach to preventing bullying regularly, taking account of any developments in technology
- Have our anti-bullying policy as a working document
- Be transparent about sanctions so that the consequences of bullying reflect the seriousness of the incident so that others see that bullying is unacceptable
- Have a robust and rigorous provision for pupils' spiritual, moral, social and cultural development, skilfully threaded through the curriculum
- Celebrate difference and diversity using open discussion about religion, ethnicity, disability, gender, sexuality, different family situations or appearance related difference
- Show zero tolerance to prejudice based, offensive or discriminatory language and understand that this language is unacceptable
- Prepare pupils very well to become responsible local/global citizens in modern, multicultural Britain with the confidence to know how to make their voice heard and taken-into-account and to express themselves in a thoughtful and considered way
- Make sure that pupils know who they are, they have a place in the world and a voice that must be heard
- Be aware of the Prevent agenda and the Channel Referral process in order to support pupils and families, safeguarding against radicalisation and extremism
- Draw on the experience and expertise of specific organisations or resources for help with particular challenges

- Provide constant, consistent and effective staff training so that staff understand the principles and purpose of the school's policy and procedures
- Work with the wider community (locally and nationally) such as the police and children's services to agree a clearly understood approach to cases where bullying is particularly serious or persistent and where a criminal offence may have been committed
- Make it clear and straight forward for pupils to report bullying so that are assured that they will be listened to and incidents acted on. Pupils should feel that they can report bullying which may have occurred outside school including cyber-bullying.

Any incidence of bullying is dealt with immediately:

- By the class teacher or the adult and is recorded in the Incident Book.
- If an adult feels unable to deal with the problem, then they go to the class teacher.
- Any incident may also be dealt with by the headteacher, who will talk to the children concerned individually and then together.
- If the bullying continues then the parents of all children involved are invited to school to discuss the problem.
- Appropriate sanctions are implemented where bullying is clearly proven.
- Section 89 (5), 90 and 91 of the Education and Inspections Act 2006 gives head teachers the power to regulate pupils' conduct when they are not on the school premises and are not under the lawful control or charge of a member of school staff, but only if it would be reasonable for the school to regulate pupils' behaviour in those circumstances. This can relate to any bullying incidents occurring anywhere off the school premises, such as on school or public transport, outside the local shops, or in a town or village centre.
- Where bullying outside school is reported to school staff, it should be investigated and acted on. Any incidence of bullying which occurs outside of school is dealt with by the class teacher and headteacher and appropriate sanctions are implemented where bullying is clearly proven. The head teacher should also consider whether it is appropriate to notify the police or anti-social behaviour co-ordinator in their local authority of the actions taken against a pupil. If the misbehaviour could be criminal or poses a serious threat to a member of the public, the police are informed.
- Where bullying has a severe impact, school will ensure that there is appropriate provision for a child's short term needs and the impact it has had on their ability to learn.

How Do We Know the Impact of Our Anti-Bullying Policy?

- ✓ Children's comments – see below.
- ✓ Children aim to use 'Marazion Manners' (MM) in all that they do. MM focuses on tolerance and respect
- ✓ We strive to develop one curriculum that is happy, diverse and beautiful
- ✓ Funky/Forest Friday themes include a focus on how respect and love shine through a range of different religions and beliefs
- ✓ Monitoring shows a consistent approach to behaviour management inside and outside school
- ✓ July 2023 Ofsted Inspection Report stated that '...pupils know what to do if they have a worry. This means that pupils feel safe in school.' See more comments below
- ✓ Collective Worship/PSHE programme, in assemblies and classes, provides an effective forum for discussion about responsible citizenship, including the celebration of difference and the promotion of tolerance and respect for others
- ✓ Older children are expected to act as excellent role models in and out of school
- ✓ During discussions about behaviour, children are able to explain what bullying is and are confident of what to do so if they feel an incident requires further investigation
- ✓ Stakeholders play an integral part in promoting a pro-active approach to bullying at Marazion School
- ✓ Children trust adults in the school – they are willing to talk as they know that they are listened to
- ✓ Children use 'Worry Eaters' to manage their worries and as one way of dealing with any anxiety
- ✓ Half termly precepts aim to make us 'better people' and give us something to think about
- ✓ Children know that 'Who Am I?' is the most important question of all

- ✓ Children can clearly communicate their proactive role (and the role of others) in the prevention of bullying in school.

Children's comments:

I can talk to adults if I see behaviour that's not right and know that they will listen.

I can talk to a Trusted Adult.

I feel safe in school.

I can talk to Russell or Louise.

I use worry-eaters.

The School Council designed 'friendship benches' for the playground that you can sit on if you have no one to play with.

The friendship benches have 'We are the same.' / 'We are different.' to remind us that we are unique.

We believe in equality – we show respect for each other and we aim to treat people how we would like to be treated.

We have written 'Marazion Manners' to remind us how we are expected to behave – read them and remind yourself!

Information around school reminds us NOT to tolerate bullying – SAY NO to bullying.

Managing bullying is our job too.

We have ZERO TOLERANCE of bullying in school.

Don't be afraid of who you are.

It's good to be different.

Circle time is a chance to talk about things that are happening around the school.

I am happy to talk in circle time.

Older children are role models.

We SAY NO to bullying online too.

Precepts encourage you to think about what it means and they can change your own actions.

Stand up for yourself, talk to a teacher, ignore the person and tell yourself to be strong.

Go and tell an adult or play with someone else.

We can combat bullying by being kind to everyone.

Marazion School is sensible and kind.

If everyone is nice, bullying will soon stop.

#choose kind

Challenge bullying – cautiously and calmly

We respect and reflect and take care of each other.

We are a family.

Teachers talk to everyone involved.

We voice our concerns.

Bullying can happen here but teachers sort things out quickly so you don't see it happen.

You can speak to parents and teachers.

We sort any problems out straight away.

We all have a VOICE.

Our teachers sort it out before it gets bad.

We challenge that behaviour!

We can sometimes fix it ourselves.

We teach others that bullying is not right.

Marazion School Ofsted Inspection Report, July 2023:

A focus on kindness starts in the early years and continues through the school to Year 6.

Relationships are warm and nurturing. Pupils care for each other and act responsibly. Leaders have made sure that pupils know what to do if they have a worry. This means that pupils feel safe in school.

Leaders have carefully considered how to support pupils' wider development. They have designed a personal development curriculum that covers diversity and equality. For example, pupils have chosen places that reflect diverse cultures for their class names, such as 'Notting Hill' and

*'Stonewall.' Pupils talk about respecting difference and embracing everyone for who they are.
This means that pupils can understand and appreciate the unique qualities they all have.
Pupils learn about the dangers of the internet and how to keep safe online.*
